COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course is not about tactics, but rather the fundamental doctrinal principles from which tactics are derived. It is designed for first responders, supervisors and support personnel who are charged with sorting order from chaos when encountering disasters, accidents, barricaded suspects, active shooters and other types of situations. Practical application scenarios are specifically designed to highlight shortcomings, deficiencies and inadequacies frequently experienced in tactical operations and disaster responses. Students who successfully complete this course can expect to gain a fundamental understanding of the factors and influences for effectively responding to civil disturbances, terrorist attacks, barricaded suspects and hostage situations, as well as natural disasters such as earthquakes, floods, fires and the like.
